RE: Please Grant FCC Approval of the InnoCaption App
Created by Miracom for Smartphone Devices

Dear Secretary Dortch,

I'm a bilateral cochlear implant recipient and a strong supporter of InnoCaption for Smartphones. I am writing to urge the FCC to approve this product now so that deaf and hard of hearing persons will be able to communicate with their Smartphones just as hearing people do in any situation.

Captions are very important to me and although CapTel is very helpful at home, I need something like InnoCaption that will allow me to communicate by phone when I'm away from home. For example: when driving to a doctor's appointment and running late, I could contact their office and let them know, and in case of an emergency when I am away from home, I could call for help. I could also benefit from InnoCaption when shopping or traveling, which would be so very helpful.

InnoCaption will give me the accessibility, convenience and mobility to use a mobile voice communication device as it was intended. Those of us with hearing loss need to be able to receive phone calls when mobile just like our hearing counterparts are able to do every day. I sincerely hope the FCC will approve InnoCaption quickly so we can begin using it ASAP.

Thank you for taking serious note of this request.

Sincerely,

Barbara Chertok
